

MediCore University Student Services Policy 2026

STU-15.1 — Student Support Services

MediCore University provides academic and administrative support services intended to help students successfully participate in university life. Student services may include academic advising, career guidance, library assistance, accessibility support, financial guidance, and general administrative assistance.

STU-15.2 — Academic Advising

Students may consult their academic advisor regarding course selection, academic progression, examination requirements, attendance concerns, graduation planning, and other academic matters. Students remain responsible for verifying their own registration and academic records.

STU-15.3 — Student Records

Students may request access to academic records through the designated University procedure. Requests must contain sufficient information for the University to identify the relevant student record. Corrections to records may be requested when a student identifies a possible administrative error.

STU-15.4 — Identity Verification

Certain student services may require identity verification before information is disclosed or an administrative request is processed. University personnel should use reasonable procedures to protect student information from unauthorized access.

STU-15.5 — Library Services

Students with valid University enrollment may use library facilities subject to library rules. Borrowed materials must be returned within the applicable borrowing period. Students may be responsible for replacement costs or other charges arising from lost or seriously damaged materials.

STU-15.6 — Career Services

The Career Services Office may provide assistance with career planning, resume preparation, interview preparation, employer events, internships, and placement-related activities. Participation in a career service does not guarantee employment or placement.

STU-15.7 — Student Complaints

Students may submit complaints regarding academic administration, facilities, student services, or other University matters through the designated complaint procedure. Complaints should contain sufficient information to allow the University to understand and investigate the issue.

STU-15.8 — Complaint Review

The receiving office may request additional information before reviewing a complaint. Where a complaint concerns another University office, the matter may be forwarded to an appropriate administrative authority.

STU-15.9 — Accessibility Support

Students who require approved accessibility support may contact the designated University office. Support arrangements should be based on documented requirements and reasonable institutional procedures.

STU-15.10 — Emergency Student Assistance

Students experiencing an urgent administrative or academic difficulty should contact the appropriate University office as soon as reasonably possible. Emergency assistance is subject to verification and availability of appropriate University resources.

STU-15.11 — Communication

Official student-service communications may be delivered through University email, student portals, notices, or other authorized channels. Students are responsible for checking official communications relevant to their academic and administrative responsibilities.

STU-15.12 — Service Requests

Student-service requests should be submitted using the procedure specified by the responsible office. Requests submitted through unofficial channels may not be processed until they are submitted through the appropriate system.

STU-15.13 — Processing Times

Processing times vary depending on the type and complexity of a request. A standard processing period does not guarantee completion by a particular date when additional verification or information is required.

STU-15.14 — Privacy

Student-service personnel should handle personal and academic information responsibly. Information should be accessed or disclosed only when required for legitimate University functions or when otherwise authorized.

STU-15.15 — Service Eligibility

Eligibility for a particular student service may depend on enrollment status, academic status, documentation, deadlines, or other requirements established by the responsible University office.

STU-15.16 — Appeals

Where a student-service decision includes an appeal mechanism, the student may submit an appeal according to the applicable procedure. Appeals should identify the decision being challenged and provide relevant supporting information.

STU-15.17 — Interpretation

Questions regarding interpretation of this policy should be directed to the responsible student-services authority. More specific University regulations may take precedence where they directly govern a particular student-service matter.
